Forecast For The United Kingdom
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Saturday 08 May 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Wet, windy weather moving northwards today. Milder, frost-free tonight.

Today:
Rain in southern and western areas, heavy over hills, will move northwards across most areas. Northern Ireland brightening up with scattered showers, while parts of southern and eastern England should turn brighter. Windy but milder, rather warm in the southeast.

Tonight:
Much milder for most areas, with some rain especially parts of Wales and western England, turning lighter and more patchy later. More showery in the northwest with clear spells.

Sunday:
Northwest UK sees sunny intervals and showers, some heavy. Southeastern parts of England fine and warm, but evening showers, possibly heavy. In between cloudier with patchy light rain.

Outlook for Monday to Wednesday:
Generally unsettled with a mixture of sunny spells and showers, as well as some more prolonged periods of rain. Some heavy bursts likely at times with a risk of thunderstorms.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.